TILL DAWN PROFILE

What starts as the first appearance of morning light is just the beginning of a new rise...

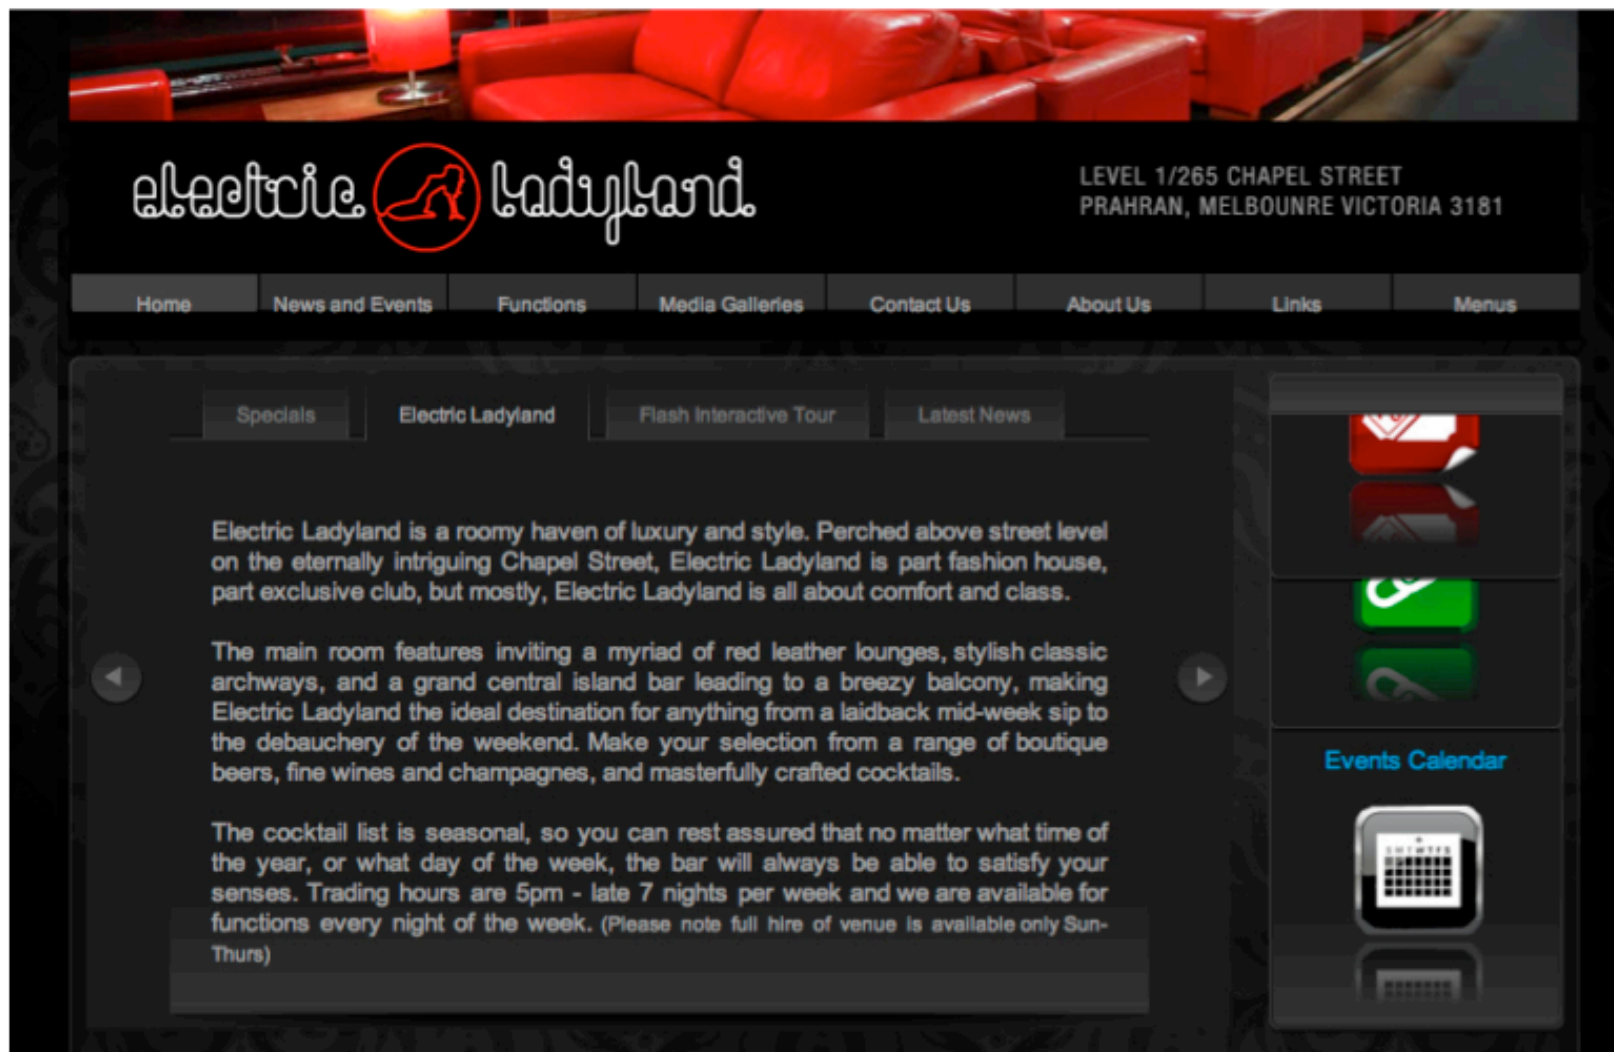

Enter a new day for fashion with Till Dawn, a progressive street wear label founded by Melbourne designer, Leigh Hoffman, whose passion for creating innovative and edgy prints began at the renowned RMIT Fashion School. After gaining five years of experience designing for several top Australian and international street wear brands, the first range of Till Dawn was born.

The contemporary graphic prints are inspired by the designer's own unforgettable days and nights in distant cities and tropical islands while traveling the globe. Adventure with no boundaries is a key element of the Till Dawn vision.

The label's dedication to keeping you comfy while you party till the sunrise is reflected in the manufacture of garments with shaped and contoured panels to ensure a perfect fit. Each print is unique and applied using specialised techniques on quality soft fabrics.

You can find the range in selected boutique stores around the country and on the backs of fashion rock stars ahead of the pack!

Astor is born

Before Chap lappers and fashionistas, fine diners and skinny-jeaned hipsters, way back in the roaring 1930s, Chapel Street was still THE place to be – thanks to the gorgeously elegant Astor Theatre.

Since opening more than 75 years ago, the Astor Theatre has been dedicated to creating a unique and special cinema experience!

Mood lighting and soft music will welcome you to the elegant lobby of this grand, art-deco building where a range of carefully selected cult classics, Hollywood golden era movies and fine new releases may be enjoyed in the luxurious theatre.

A lavish, gold curtained screen may hint at opulent 1930s glamour but the fully-air-conditioned cinema boasts a state-of-the-art sound system and a giant screen that are decidedly 21st century for your viewing pleasure!

Ensnconced on the outskirts of Chinatown, Laksa Me is the latest eatery by renowned chef Allen Woo of Ah Mu fame. Fans of Woo's work will be glad to hear Laksa Me features the same unique blend of modern Asian cuisines that saw Ah Mu awarded the gong of best modern Asian restaurant by The Age Good Food Guide from 2001 to 2004.

Laksa Me has a friendly, understated vibe with dark red and eggplant feature walls, fresh flowers, tranquil jazz music and glazed concrete floors painted with Asian characters. The cuisine is an enticing mix of contemporary pan-Asian flavours, showcased in Woo's own creatively designed recipes.

The menu might feature siu mai dumplings with Malaysian crispy tofu; or a vegetarian triangle with wok-tossed shredded daikon, crunchy mung beans and Asian chives, folded and pan-fried in Chinese white pastry. Woo's signature is the tangy oyster shots, featuring Pacific oysters lightly cured in a nutty basil and sesame dressing. Pick the perfect shot chaser from an extensive beer list, packed with Australian and imported Asian varieties.
